We use old, traditional recipes

We rely on proven recipes that are passed down from generation to generation in our regions. They allow us not only to continue the customs characteristic of the Lublin region, but above all to provide unique taste experiences.

We work with suppliers we know

We rely on years of business relations, as well as ordinary neighborly acquaintance.

It is thanks to them that we cooperate with farmers we trust, and who provide us only with natural, proven and full-value products.

We are committed to quality, naturalness and freshness

All of them are the result of work based on sustainable production - drawing from what is best in the Lublin region: our own arable fields, own husbandry, own technology and, above all, own tradition.

That's how we do business at Ridgeland Farms.

We produce food that we, our relatives, neighbors and friends eat.

And now we want its taste and aroma to get to your table.

Ridgeland Farms – producer of meat, cold meats, sausages and other natural and organic products. We are a modern production plant, which, however, draws on the best traditions of meat and sausage production. We rely on environmentally friendly agriculture, thanks to which our meat products are not only natural and safe, but above all tasty. They have the taste that is lacking in the popular, but frequently poor quality products offered by supermarkets.

Organic sausages, ham, sausages, pates, roasts, delicatessen. Production of meat and sausages is the cornerstone of our business. We create unique thin, dry and dried sausages. We are famous for our exceptionally tasty cold meats, hams and tenderloin cold meats. We also make excellent pâtés and roasts, as well as successfully produce vegetable preserves, juices and beverages. Each of our organic products has one thing in common – they are all made using only the best and thoroughly tested ingredients, as well as based only on traditional recipes for which our region is famous.
